Guitarist Jaimie Cameron, veteran of area bands the House Rockers, Big Kabluey, and Jacqui and the Tumble Kings, adds his signature compositions to a danceable and distinctive sound, with harp player Henry Perry, who took early instruction from DeFord Bailey, the only African American member of the early Grand Ole Opry. New Dismembered Tennesseans
Bluegrass
SaturdaFEB 25, 8 P.M.

Building on a 70-year history as one of the most influential bluegrass bands in the region, the New Dismembered Tennesseans today bring a new lineup, new repertoire, and new energy to the band founded by Tennessee master fiddler and philanthropist Fletcher Bright and his high school friends back in 1945. Make that “mostly” new lineup, as original banjo player Ed “Doc” Cullis still performs with the band today. Today, along with Cullis, the band features long-time members Laura Walker (bass and vocals) and Don Cassell (mandolin and vocals) plus Bobby Burns (guitar and vocals), Tom Morley (fiddle and vocals) and Fletcher’s granddaughter, Eleanor Bright (clawhammer banjo and vocals), who brings the band full-circle with its roots.
